

August 30th the 52d was ordered to Bowling Green. It was then in Col. Cicero Maxwell's brigade. It proceeded into Tennessee through Nashville. October 1st it was at Tullahoma, in the command of Gen. Rousseau, operating against Forrest and Wheeler. In October it proceeded to Athens and Huntsville, Ala. It returned and served with the cavalry of Gen. Thomas about Nashville. December 5th it was again at Bowling Green and went into Western Kentucky to aid in resisting the invasion of the Confederates under Gen. Lyon.

After the destruction of Gen. Hood's army at Nashville, in December, 1864, the 52d was not so actively engaged and was mustered out of service in January and March, 1865, having made a splendid record as a useful and gallant regiment.
