Nuncupative codicil 4 March 1490/1. [? sic] Cravens manor in Horneham [? Henham] and lands in Henham, Bliburgh, Bulcamp, Briggs, Sotherton, Dunwich, Wangford, Rydon, Brampton, Westhale, Blyford and the manor of Burneayles in Suffolk and other lands &c in Eyk, Revlesham, Brumeswold, Asshe-next-Compesse, Lownam, Dalenge, co. Suffolk and the manor of Weston next Chevyngton, co. Warws. and other lands &c. in said county; mesuages and cottages &c. in co. Surrey. To wife Elizabeth, Cravens manor and lands &c. in Horneham, Bliburgh, Bulcamp, Briggs, Sotherton, Dunwich, Wangford, Rydon, Brampton, Westhall and Blyford for life, remainder to Sir Robert Brandon and the heirs male of his body, but, if he have no such heirs and assigns, then to Dame Elizabeth to dispose as she wills. Said Elizabeth then to have Burnesviles manor and the lands in Colnesse Hundred, co. Suffolk, the manor of Cleves, co. Suffolk, and the lands in Eyke, Revelsham, Brumeswold, Asshe-next-Compesse, Lowdam and Delenges, co. Suffolk and the manor of Weston-next-Chavyngton, co. Warws. and all the Warwickshire lands and lands &c in co. Surrey in fee simple. Named in the probate are John Ryding, John Gurney, John Leventhorpe, John Hardy and Hugh John. Proved 17 Nov. 1491 by William Brandon Jr., son and heir of William Brandon Jr. knt. (P.C.C. 7 Dogett).

The will of Dame Elizabeth Brandon was proved 8 May 1497. To be buried by her late husband, Sir William Brandon. To son Sir Robert Brandon and the heirs male of his body the manor of Cravens in Henham, with like remainders to son Thomas Brandon, William Brandon, nephew of Thomas, Charles Brandon, brother of William, Anne, sister of Charles, Elizabeth Leventhorp, aunt of said Anne, my daughter, Eleanor Glemham, my daughter, Anne Sydney, my daughter [i.e. the great-grandmother of Sir Philip Sydney], Thomas Brandon, Dame Margaret Lovell, my daughter, Katherine Gourney, my daughter, Eleanor, daughter of Anne Sydney, remainder to the right heirs of Sir William Brandon (Testa. Vetusta, vol. II, p. 432).

The will of Sir Thomas Brandon, K.G., dated 11 Jan. 1508/9, proved 11 May 1510. To be buried in the church of the Friars Preachers in London near unto the grave of Sir John Wingfield knt. Bequest to the Austin Friars. Mentions the Marquis of Berkeley deceased and the Lady Marquis, my wife. To brother Sir Robert Brandon. To Charles Brandon. To sister Redinge. To niece Yaxley. To nieces Dorothy and Katherine. To sister Katherine Gurney. To nephew Charles Brandon. To Lady Jane Gylford, widow my premises in Southwark and lands in Norfolk and Suffolk for life, she to pay 20 marks per annum to my nephew William Sydney, remainder to Charles Brandon. Executors Sir Thomas Lovell and John Royden (ibid., vol. II, p. 496).

The Inq. Post Mortem of Elizabeth, late wife of Sir William Brandon Writ of diem clausit extremum issued 11 April 12 Henry VII (1497). By her will she devised lands in Henham, Bliburgh, Bulcamp and Briggs to her son Robert in fee tail male, remainder to her son Thomas. She devised Burneviles to her son Sir Thomas Brandon in fee tail male, with like remainders to William, nephew of Thomas, Charles, brother of William and son of William, son Robert Brandon knt., Anne Brandon, sister of William and Charles, her daughter Elizabeth Leventhorp, aunt of the said Anne, her daughters Eleanor Glemham, Mary Redyng, Anne Sydney, Dame Margaret Lovell and Katherine Gurney, her cousin [granddaughter] Anne Loveday, and Eleanor daughter of Anne Sydney, remainder, in default, to the right heirs of William Brandon knt. and herself. Elizabeth died 28 April 12 Henry VII (1496/7).

Dugdale in the Baronage (vol. II, p. 300) gives the inq. p. m. taken 2 Elizabeth (1559/60) after the failure of the issue male, by his third wife, Katherine Willoughby, of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk. It was found that his heirs were the descendants of his grandfather, Sir William Brandon, as, by the doctrine of possessio fratris, his daughters by his other wives were excluded. Sir William Brandon and Elizabeth Wingfield, his wife, had issue:

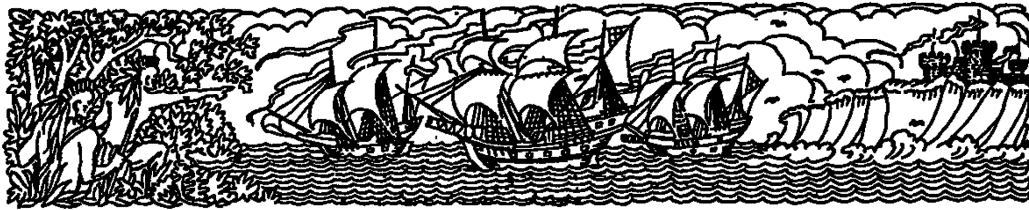

- i. SIR WILLIAM, eldest son and heir apparent, Standard Bearer of the Earl of Richmond at Bosworth, where he was slain. He married ANNE, widow of ——— Mallory and daughter and heiress of Sir Henry Bruyn. In 1475, when his father made his first will, however, he had a wife named Elizabeth.
 1. Anna.
 1. William.
 3. Charles, Duke of Suffolk, m. (1) Anne, daughter of Sir Anthony Browne; m. (2) Margaret, daughter of John, Marquis of Montagu, widow of John Mortimer, repudiated; m. (3) the Princess Mary Tudor, widow of Louis XII of France and sister of Henry VIII; m. (4) Katherine, daughter and heiress of William, Lord Willoughby d'Eresby. He died 24 Aug. 1545, leaving six children by his various wives.
- ii. SIR ROBERT, d. s.p.; m. ——— CALTHORPE.
- iii. SIR THOMAS, K.G., d. s.p. in 1510; m. ANNE, widow of William, Marquis of Berkeley and daughter of Sir Thomas Fiennes.
- iv. ELIZABETH, m. (1) JOHN CAVENDISH; m. (2) before 4 March 1490/1 JOHN LEVENTHORPE.
- v. ANNA, m. JOHN SYDNEY. She was the great-grandmother of Sir Philip, the poet.
- vi. MARGARET, m. SIR THOMAS LOVELL.
- vii. ELEANOR, m. as his second wife JOHN GLEMHAM of Glemham Parva, co. Suffolk, Esq.
- viii. KATHERINE, m. prior to 4 March 1490/1 JOHN GOURNEY.
- ix. MARY, m. prior to 4 March 1490/1 JOHN RYDING.
- x. MARGARET.
- ? xi. ANNE, married ——— LOVEDAY.

As noted, in the beginning of this paper, nothing certain is known regarding the antecedents of Sir William Brandon, beyond the fact that he probably came from Norfolk. The following records would seem to suggest his probable ancestry.

Norfolk Feet of Fines, Rich. I—Henry VII(ed. Rye).

3 Rich. II (1379/80) Henry de Brandon of Northwold quer. vs. John Fishere of Stoke ferye and wife Christian, deforcs. for lands in Northwold (p. 99).

THE WETHERILL-WATSON ROYAL ANCESTRY

By WALTER L. SHEPPARD, JR., M.S., F.A.S.G., of Philadelphia, Pa.

Communicated by the Committee on English and Foreign Research

Toward the end of the last century and during the first decade of this, Mr. Charles Wetherill, of Philadelphia, made a study of the Wetherill ancestry. He compiled tables of many descendants of Christopher Wetherill, who came to Burlington, N. J., from Yorkshire (copy in the collections of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, reproduced from manuscript, 1882), and he also worked out a chart to show the descent of Christopher Wetherill from John of Gaunt through the Watson and Delaval families, together with an additional descent from Edmond of Woodstock, Earl of Kent, and Thomas of Brotherton, Earl of Norfolk, sons of Edward I. Minor inaccuracies are at once apparent in this chart, such as carelessness in drawing the lines to show descent, and for this and other reasons, it has been thought advisable to verify the chart and the references quoted.

The author is not entirely happy about this descent. It is certainly completely proved, with the exception of two generations. The identification of Mary, wife of Christopher Wetherill, as daughter of John Watson, and the identification of Christopher Wetherill of Sherburne, York, and Burlington, N. J., as son of Thomas of Newcastle are not absolute, though the latter seems almost certain. There is certainly some doubt about Mary Wetherill. The sources of all Mr. Wetherill's statements are not entirely clear. But none are actually disproved.

In the following study, the author has traced the lines indicated by Mr. Wetherill to the point where they converge (the marriage of Edward Delaval and Phillis Ogle), adding a second descent from John of Gaunt, one more from Thomas of Brotherton, and two from Joan of Acre. No collaterals have been listed down to this generation. However from this point forward such additional information as appears in the records cited is offered for the benefit of others desiring it.

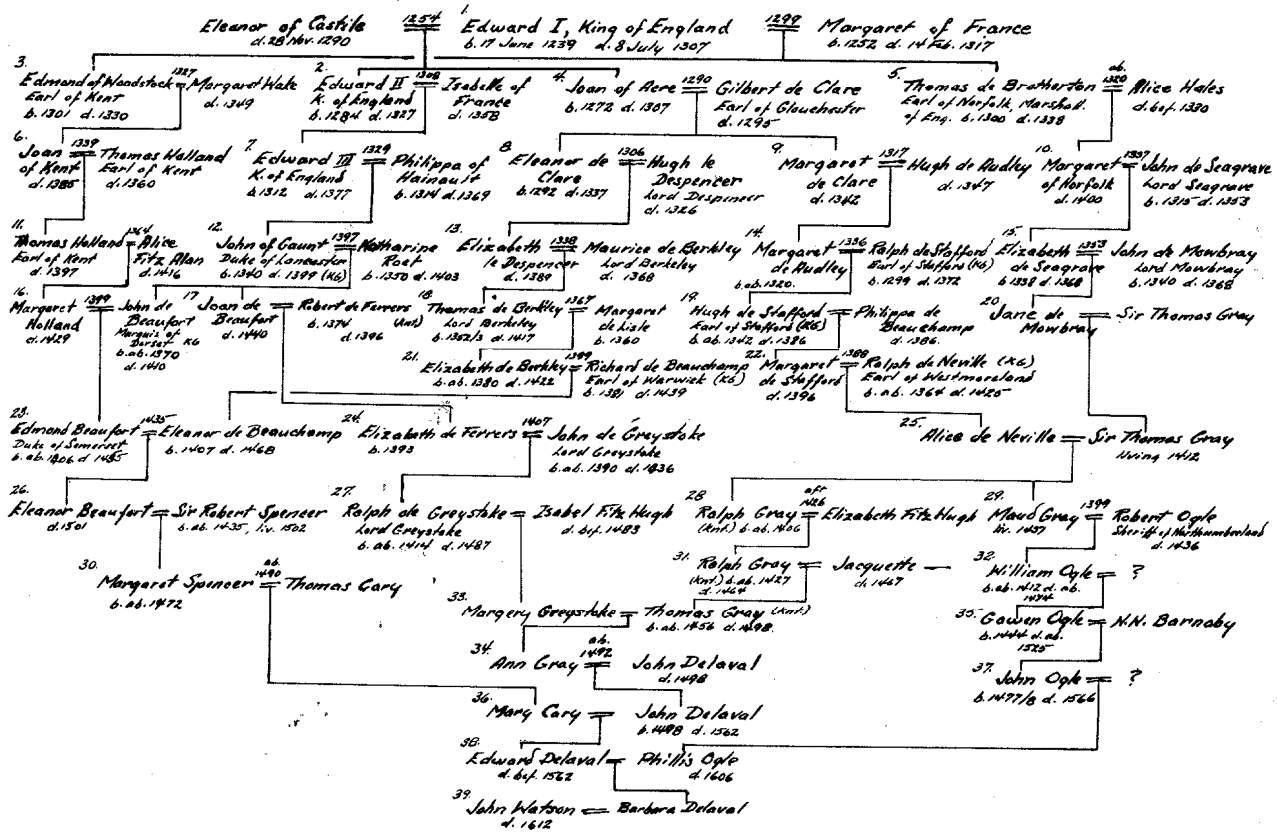

In the following chart, the seven separate descents are shown down to and including Barbara Delaval and her husband, John Watson. Those generations which have been discussed earlier in other publications or are given in detail in standard references, easily available, have been covered simply by page references to the appropriate works. These references immediately follow the chart and are keyed to it by the numbers opposite each generation. The balance of the generations are covered with brief biographical sketches as well as by the page references.

Nichol's Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica (1834), page 308, shows Sir Thomas Cary incorrectly as "Sir Oswald Cary of the West Country". One of the younger sons of this marriage was William Cary who married Mary Boleyn, sister of Ann Boleyn, second Queen of Henry VIII, and mother of Queen Elizabeth. Mary is supposed to have been Henry VIII's mistress before he married Ann, since he had the Church laws altered to permit the marriage of a man to the sister of his mistress. William and Mary (Boleyn) Cary were the parents of Sir Henry Cary, Lord Hunsdon, who was whispered to be actually the son of Henry VIII.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

In the following sketches the author has sought to offer information on those generations not generally available in printed sources or not well known.

25. Sir Thomas Grey of Heton, living 1412, married Alice, daughter of Sir Ralph Neville, 1st Earl of Westmoreland. She married as her second husband Gilbert de Lancaster. They had
28. Sir Ralph Grey.
29. Maud Grey.

References: — Visitations of Northumberland, page 125, Durham (Dugdale), page 248; County History of Northumberland, vol. 14, page 328, see quoted references.

Considerable discussion has appeared on whether Maud Grey (No. 29) who married Robert Ogle was the daughter of Sir Thomas Grey who married Jane de Mowbray (No. 20) or of Sir Thomas Grey who married Alice Neville (No. 25), his son. Sir John Ogle, in his book, Ogle and Bothal, gives the evidence for both views, making no firm decision. The chart in the County History of Northumberland, vol. 14, facing page 328, shows Maud as daughter of Thomas and Joan, while Hodgson's Northumberland, part II, vol. I, pages 381, et seq., shows Maud as daughter of "Robert" Grey of Horton and Alice, daughter of Ralph, 1st Earl of Westmoreland. Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerages, under Grey (reference not usually considered reliable) gives Maud as the daughter of the first Thomas, but under Ogle, page 413, quotes Dugdale's Visitations of Northumberland to show her the daughter of the second Thomas and Alice Neville. Foster's combined compilation of St. George's and Dugdale's Visitations of 1615 and 1666 (also Harleian Soc., vol. 16) show Maud as the daughter of Sir John Grey, Earl of Tankerville, who was a son of Thomas and Joan (No. 20). This latter suggestion is certainly in error. Rev. James Raine's History of North Durham (1852), facing page 327, gives a pedigree showing Maud as daughter of Thomas and Alice Neville; also confirmed in the MS. Asmole 831, ff 31^v-32^v (printed in Surtees Society, vol. 144, page 53, called Visitations of the North, circa 1480-1500).

G.E.C., in the New Complete Peerage, vol. X, pages 28-29, shows Maud as the daughter of Thomas Grey, Lord of Wark. If we examine page 284 of vol. 15, County History of Northumberland, we find that Wark was in the Grey family ship-money tax of 1637, having "run away." His father's will is given in Waters's Gleanings, Vol. I, page 33; and other Firmin wills, in Emerton and Waters's Gleanings, pages 34 to 39. The place from which he fled was Polstead, a scattered village and parish, three miles north-north-east from Nayland. The parish register of its Church of St. Mary begins in 1538. From this parish also fled Stebins Catesby and Ambrose Hall, for parts unknown to evade the tax.

The name of Firmin is still known in Sudbury, by a charity left in 1662 by Richard Firmin, consisting of four acres at Windmill Hill, the rent to be divided yearly, one half to the poor of St. Peter's parish, the other half to those of St. Gregory and All Saints. It amounts to less than eight pounds yearly.

Another charity is that of Martin Cole, who died in 1620, and in the abstract of his will, in Waters's Gleanings, Vol. 2, page 1223, it is not referred to. He bequeathed out of Shemford Mills in Henny, and two meadows in Lamarsh, Essex, a yearly rent charge to trustees, to pay ten pounds yearly for linen and one pound for making it into shirts and smocks, to be distributed among the poor of the three parishes of Sudbury, on the Monday after Ascension Day; also 6s. 8d. to the ministers of St. Peter's and All Saints for sermons; 6s. 8d. to the town clerk, and two pounds for a love feast for the two ministers and the corporation, in remembrance of the testator. He was a cousin of Roger Cole of St. Saviour's, Southwark, London, who was born in Sudbury, the maternal grandfather of Margaret, wife of Dep. Gov. Francis Willoughby.

John Newgate, or Newdigate, latter, of Boston, Mass., 1634, had made his will in 1638, when expecting to go to England, and in it mentioned his lands at Horninger, Suffolk, Eng. This is the parish of Horningsheath, three miles south-west of Bury St. Edmunds, and twelve miles north of Sudbury. The parish register begins in 1558.

5 Oct., 1649, there was proved in the Archdeaconry Court of Sudbury (the records, &c., of which are now at Bury St. Edmunds), the will of John Newgate, of Bury St. Edmunds, in which he mentions his brother, John Newgate, then residing in New England (REGISTER Vol. XXXIII, page 58).

"Humphrey Griggs of Braintree, in Suff: in New Engl. made &c. Isaac Martin of Hingham in N. E., his true and lawful Att: grantin him full power &c to ask &c of W^m Griggs of Cavendish in Suff. Clerke the sume of fyve pounds w^{ch} is a certaine Legacie given him by the last will of Tho: Griggs of Sudbury in the County of Suff. tallow chandler deceased & of the receipt &c: Also to compound &c: & to appeare before all Lords &c: to doe say &c. & generally to doe all things &c ratifying &c:" (2 Dec. 1646.)

"An Attest unto a Generall Release from Humphrey Griggs of Braintre unto his brother William Griggs of Cavendish in Suffolke, Clerke, for fyve pounds Received for a Legacie given him by the last will of Thomas Griggs of Sudbury deceased." (2 Dec. 1646.) (Aspinwall, p. 41.)

Humphrey Griggs of Braintree, married 1 Nov., 1655, the widow Grizell Jewell, and died about 18 Aug., 1657, when administration was granted to his widow, and an inventory made of his estate. Cavendish, where his brother was minister, is six miles north-west of Sudbury. The register of the Church of St. Mary there commences in 1594. This parish gives its name to the Cavendish family of which the Duke of Devonshire is the representative. George Scott, merchant of London, and brother of Richard Scott of Providence, R. I., had lands at Cavendish. Their father was Edward Scott of Glemsford, Suffolk, which joins Cavendish. (Waters's Gleanings, Vol. 2, page 1287.)

In Waters's Gleanings, Vol. I, page 585, is given the will of Richard Griggs, of Ipswich, Suffolk, tallow-chandler, and Thomas Griggs, apothecary, who may have been related to the aforementioned Griggs.

Isaac Stearns of Watertown, Mass., planter, came from Stoke Nayland, where he was a tailor. His wife, Mary, was a daughter of John Barker, clothier, of Nayland, by Margaret his wife, who, after the death of Barker, married a farmer by the name of Munnings (Mullings?), of Engaine Colne, Essex. Several wills of the Barker family are given in Waters's Gleanings, Vol. 2, pages 1157-1160.

Rev. Clement Chaplin, of Thetford, Norfolk, clerk, was son of William Chaplin of Semer, Suffolk (which is eight miles north-east of Sudbury), who was a chandler in Bury St. Edmunds. Clement came to New England, was an elder of Hooker's congregation, and after being at Cambridge removed to

BARBADIAN NOTES

By G. ANDREWS MORIARTY, JR., A.M., of Newport, R. I.

DURING a recent visit to the Island of Barbados, in search of data concerning certain of his ancestral lines, the writer of this article made a point of collecting everything that he found relating to New England and Virginian families. This field of research is a new and comparatively unknown one; for while many Americans are interested in investigating their ancestral lines in England, few are aware of the importance of the records preserved in this remote island, especially for students of the history and genealogy of the flourishing coast towns of New England and of old Lower Norfolk County, Virginia.

Barbados, fondly known to its loyal inhabitants as "Little England," is the most southern and eastern of the Caribbee Islands, being a little more than half way between New York and Para on the Amazon, or about 2000 miles southeast of the former city. It has been under British rule without any interruption since 1605, when the sailors of the Olive Blossom took possession of the island in the name of King James. The first settlement was made in 1627, under the auspices of Sir William Courten, a wealthy London merchant, at "The Hole," now called Holetown, and in 1629 the settlers under the charter of the Earl of Carlisle settled at the Indian Bridge, now called Bridgetown, the capital.

From the earliest days of the settlement the Barbadians were loyal to their king and devoted to the Church of England. At the time of the Cromwellian usurpation they proclaimed King Charles II, and under the leadership of Lord Willoughby of Parham drove the Dissenters from the island. So hostile were they to the Commonwealth that Sir George Ayscue was sent to reduce them, but such a stout resistance was made that they secured a most advantageous peace. Sugar-planting brought such prosperity to Barbados that by 1670 the population was reckoned at 150,000, of whom 50,000 were whites and 100,000 blacks, and this prosperity continued until the American War.

Barbados is one of the few British colonies still governed by its ancient charter, and the islanders, while always jealous of their rights and firm in defending them, have never found it necessary to rebel against their sovereign; but glory in their long history of unshaken loyalty to England and in the fact that the foot of a foreign invader has never desecrated their shores.

During a large part of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the connection of New England and Virginia with Barbados was extremely close. No history dealing with the American colonial period, save the recent admirable work of Professor Channing, has ever dealt adequately with the intercourse between these colonies.

parish half-way between Spilsby and Horncastle. Robert Wight had some connection with Alford, for he was a witness to Balthasar Willick's will there in 1598/9, and in 1613 he married there his second wife, Bridget White. The will of Robert Wight and the Hareby transcripts show that he had a son Thomas, baptized 6 Dec. 1607, who may have been the Exeter settler, although proof that he was the Thomas Wight of the Combination has not yet been found.

* This marriage has been printed in Phillimore's Lincolnshire Parish Registers.

Balthazar Willix was a settler at Exeter in New England in 1640, and Mr. Frank W. Hackett, in a brief article containing interesting information about him and his family (REGISTER, vol. 50, pp. 46-48), stated that his name could scarcely be English. He was unquestionably the son of Balthasar Willick or Willech of Alford, co. Lincoln, the testator of 1598/9, who had a wife Anne, and who was buried at Alford 13 Feb. 1598/9. The entries in the transcripts of the Alford registers show the baptisms of three sons of the elder Balthasar, namely, Peregrine, 22 July 1593, Balthasar (the Exeter settler), 27 July 1595, and Edward, 30 Apr. 1598, and the burial of a daughter Susanna, 28 May 1600. Of the three witnesses to the will of Balthasar Willick of Alford Robert Wight was perhaps the father of Thomas Wight of Exeter, as we have seen; Leonard Thory was of a good Lincolnshire family; and William Bellingham lived at Alford, married there, 3 July 1600, Anne, the widow of Balthasar Willick, and had a daughter Susanna, baptized there 1 Sept. 1601. This daughter was married at Alford, 11 Oct. 1627, to Philemon Pormort, later of Boston, where he was schoolmaster, Exeter, and Wells. William Bellingham made his will 25 Aug. 1606, and was buried at Alford 2 Sept. 1606.*

This Bellingham connection is interesting, although I do not believe that the Alford yeoman was closely if at all related to the morose and aristocratic Puritan, Richard Bellingham, recorder of Boston in England and governor of the Massachusetts Bay.

Balthasar Willick of Alford seems to have been a man of substance, and was perhaps a protégé of Peregrine Bertie, Lord Willoughby d'Eresby. The oldest son of this Balthasar was evidently named Peregrine in honor of Lord Willoughby, and here one may indulge in theory to help out the gaps in genealogy. Nowhere else in Lincolnshire or in England have I found the name of Willick. It has a Flemish sound. Peregrine Bertie was a typical Elizabethan nobleman, a friend of Sidney, and in command when the latter fell at Zutphen. Bertie was born at Cleves, and from 1582 to 1590 was almost constantly abroad on diplomatic or military service, mainly in Holland and the Low Countries. In 1597 he was made governor of Berwick Castle. He died in 1601, and is buried at Spilsby in Lincolnshire. It may well be that Lord Willoughby attached to himself the Flemish youth, Balthasar Willech, and brought him to England on one of his numerous visits. This would explain the fact that the name appears nowhere else in England, and might account for the leaseholds which Balthasar Willech of Alford acquired from his lord.

It would be interesting to follow the line of Anna Willix, one of the daughters of Balthazar of Exeter, who, according to the records presented by Mr. Hackett, married first Robert Roscoe, who moved to Roanoke and died there; secondly ——— Blunt; thirdly ——— Southwell; and fourthly Col. Leare of Virginia.† It will be remembered that Winthrop recites with rather too much particularity the murder of the first wife of Balthazar Willix of Exeter. The recently published files of the old Norfolk County Court show that at the court at Hampton, 7 Sept. 1648, Willex sued one Robert Hithersay "for raising an evil report of his deceased wife, and for breach of promise in carrying his wife to Oyster River in a canoe and not bringing her up in a canoe again." Hithersay, who roved from Concord to Lynn, Exeter, and York, was apparently a wayward character, and may have been suspected of the murder.
